(2) Notwithstanding such repeal, anything done or any action taken under the principal Act as amended by the said Ordinances shall be deemed to have been done or taken under the principal Act as amended by this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

Consequent on the Proclamation of Emergency made by the President on the 25th June, 1975, it became necessary for the Government to arm itself with powers to take certain preventive measures in the interest of the security of the country which was threatened by internal disturbance. It was felt that in respect of persons detained under the Maintenance of Internal Security Act, 1971, for dealing effectively with the emergency, it would be sufficient to provide that their cases should be reviewed at specified intervals. It was also considered necessary to make it permissible to revoke a defective order of detention and issue a fresh order and also to provide that the detenus should not be released on bail.

As a view has been expressed that right to personal liberty exists in natural law or common law, apart from that right being embodied in article 21 of the Constitution, it is considered safer to insert a provision taking away such natural law or common law rights, if any.

The President accordingly promulgated two Ordinances on 29th June, 1975 and 15th July, 1975 to amend the Act. The Bill seeks to replace the two Ordinances aforesaid.
